

It is my greatest privilege to be invited for a school visit to Le Quy Don Gifted High School by Sister Hang and Sister Ha.

A brief introduction of the school. It is founded in 15/10/1986. Their objectives are to train Gifted students to achieve excellent results, not only in academic majors (11 majors: maths, physics, chemistry, biology, IT Literature, history, geography, French and Japanese) but also in morality, intelligence, physical fitness and Aesthetics in order to provide prospective leaders for this beautiful Da Nang City.

All their students have realised that Vietnamese culture is part of Human culture. It is early formed and is the culture of learning, a kind of open, dialogue and wholehearted learning culture. They are educated to preserve and promote identity of the nation because of the National pride is the base of economic development. Also, preserving cultural identity means inheriting and developing the cultural values in the process of integration, maintaining the harmony between people and nature. They are also provided with opportunities to control the world they are living in, to appreciate their surroundings, to share ideas and wishes. With their knowledge, they can make sense of their worlds and they will change to suit the needs of today.

The students stay connected through the free wifi services in school. Internet access is readily made available as long as they are in the public places.

Their female Teachers are dressed in their national costumes daily to the class and their female students put on the white coloured ones once per week. This shows that as they move towards global integration and keeping their national and traditional identities.

The drum is used to inform students the change of period and also dismissal time.
